DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

1. Claims 1-3, 5-13, 15-31, 33-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jui-Yuan in view of Rochel et al.

Jui-Yuan discloses a heat dissipation apparatus for a computer comprising a heat sink 22 having a bottom surface attached to a CPU and having prongs 223 extending from an upper surface, the interior of the heat sink receive cooling fluid generated by fan modules 23 and 24 disposed on the inlet and the exhaust ends of the heat sink, the heat sink is made of a thermally conductive metal. Jui-Yuan discloses the claimed invention except enclosing portion that encloses the interior passage. Rochel discloses the heat sink having the enclosed fluid passage. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to have enclosed interior as disclosed by Rochel et al. in the structure disclosed by Jui-Yuan in order to provide optimal cooling by streamlining airflow.

2. Claims 4, 14 and 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jui-Yuan in view of Rochel et al. and further in view of Katsui.

Jui-Yuan and Rochel disclose the claimed invention except the prongs being cylindrical rods. Katsui discloses the heat sink having cylindrical rods. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to use cylindrical rods as disclosed by Katsui in the structure disclosed by Jui-Yuan for enhanced heat dissipation by turbulent airflow facilitated by cylindrical rods.

Art Unit: 2835

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 11/15/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In response to applicant's argument that the examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon hindsight reasoning. But so long as it takes into account only knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicant's disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. See In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA, 1971).

In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, Rochel reference shows the enclosed fins extending from the base plate of the heat sink and the cooling airflow produced by the fan passes through inside the heat sink, therefore it clearly suggests to one of ordinary skill in the art the possibility to modify the device disclosed by Jui-Yuan. The Rochel reference itself would be sufficient to reject at least claim 1. In response to applicant's argument that the prior art lacks of teaching or suggestion of all the claimed elements, specifically the prongs, it must be recognized that the claims are interpreted as broadly as reasonably possible, therefore the definition of prong as "any pointed, projecting part" would be properly applied to the fins as disclosed by Jui-Yuan. The enclosed or exposed prongs or pin fins are disclosed in several references cited in the US PTO 892 Form in the First Office Action dated 08/11/04 and in additional prior art attached to the instant Office Action, which is not applied at this time. The specific interest presents the US Patent Application Publication US 2003/0221814 A1 to Kamath et al.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
